

MAN AS OWNER TAKES HIS YARD

William Farber of Fort Byron Sol-lows Loss of Structure While No Works.

(Special to The Argus.)

Fort Byron, Ill., Nov. 19.—While William Farber talked over the front yard fence to his neighbor and raked leaves at the same time yesterday afternoon, his two-story carpenter shop in the rear of the property was being consumed by fire. The village fire brigade, running from all directions with buckets of water, saved the house and other smaller buildings. The shop was leveled, tools, ropes and machinery burning, the total damage amounting to $1,500. The building is covered by a $250 insurance, but the tools were not insured. Mr. Farber was raking leaves in his back yard earlier in the afternoon, but about 3 o'clock had gone to the front yard to clean it. He was raking and talking to a neighbor, when the cracking of the fire drew his attention. Running to the rear of the lot, he saw the building in flames. The blaze started when the wind blew some of the burning leaves, which Mr. Farber believed he had put out, toward the frame structure. The dwelling was 50 feet from the shop. The neighbors formed into a fire brigade and put all their energy on saving the residence. The shop would have probably been saved had the gale not been so strong.

Readers of The Argus are invited to express their views under this heading.
You are at liberty to write on any subject of your choice. A newspaper needs to hear all sides of a question. The editors of The Argus are open to all. All dis-putations must be done along with the name and address of the writer, though your name will not be printed if you desire that it not be.

Fashions May Not Gaily.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Editor Argus:
The attached clipping indicates that you reported the indictments returned against us in New York on the charge of violating the Lever act, but we have no clipping indicating that you carried our reply to the indictment, and we believe that you ought to report to your readers what we had to say on the matter, because our statement shows conclusively that the indictments constitute an injustice.
Professing unnecessary means the exaction of unreasonable profits and whether or not profits are reasonable can be determined only by their ratio to the volume of business transacted and the money invested. In the handling of personalities there are bound to be losses as well as profits and until the losses are figured against the profits it cannot be determined as to whether there have been any earnings at all—reasonable or otherwise.

During the period covered by the indictments we sustained losses in the handling of domestic lamb, which more than offset the profits made in the handling of New Zealand lamb and the net result of our lamb business was a loss.
Under those circumstances we cannot conceive that any jury of honest men will bring in any verdict other than one of complete vindication for this company and such vindication will show the injustice of the indictments.

The confidence and esteem of the public are among the most valuable assets any firm may have, and the unwarranted indictments returned in New York and the widespread publicity given them have done us irreparable harm. In view of the fact that you printed the story of The indictment, we think you should also print the view of them presented in this letter. Very truly yours,

ARMOUR & CO.
